

Being able to eat dinner and spend time with family- without someone calling and trying to sell me life insurance or credit cards has been so wonderful. If I want these things I will go out and get them. When a person works all day and comes home to the sanctuary of home the last thing you want is someone trying to sell you something you don't want and the only way to get rid of them is to be rude or hang up on them! Please uphold this law!
